

Win a Sands of Gallipoli Limited Edition medallion set

Picture the Spirit

In the lead-up to this year's ANZAC day commemorations The Times is running a competition for budding photographers to capture the spirit of ANZAC with their camera.

Can you take a photograph that captures the ANZAC Spirit of Courage, Comradeship or Sacrifice? If you can then send it to us, along with a short caption explaining your subject, and you'll be in the running to win a fantastic Sands of Gallipoli limited edition commemorative set valued at $195.00. It's all part of keeping our community links to the ANZAC Spirit alive and well.

We will publish selected photographs and the winner will be announced shortly after ANZAC Day.

The limited edition prize set is part of the 2009 Sands of Gallipoli range of collector's item which feature small vials of sand collected from the landing beaches at Gallipoli.

The first Sands of Gallipoli collection was released in 2004 and has since grown to become a national icon, helping people celebrate and remember the ANZAC spirit. Each year a unique collection is created and at least 10 per cent of proceeds from the sale of the collection is provided to support the RSL's ongoing welfare work in the
